New Path Construction & Consulting Expands Services to Include Architectural & Design Services

Hannover Park, IL – February 19th, 2024

New Path Construction & Consulting, a leading name in commercial general contracting, proudly announces its expansion into Architectural & Design Services. With this strategic move, New Path aims to provide a comprehensive solution to clients, guiding them seamlessly through every stage of the construction process from initial design concepts to project completion.

As a premier commercial general contractor, New Path Construction & Consulting has built a solid reputation for delivering high-quality construction projects on time and within budget. With the addition of Architectural & Design Services, the company now offers a one-stop solution for clients seeking a streamlined approach to their construction needs.

"We are thrilled to announce our transition into full Design/Build services," said Adam Garcia, CEO & Founder of New Path Construction & Consulting. "By integrating design and construction expertise under one roof, we can offer our clients a more efficient and collaborative experience from concept to completion."

The Design/Build approach allows clients to work closely with New Path's team of architects, engineers, and construction professionals throughout every phase of the project. From initial brainstorming sessions to final construction, clients can expect clear communication, innovative solutions, and a dedicated focus on achieving their vision.

The leader of Design is Justin Rios. Justin is a respected licensed Architect with over a decade of experience spanning various sectors, including hospitality and educational architecture. With a track record of success in projects ranging from $1 million to $95 million, Justin brings a wealth of expertise to his role at New Path Construction & Consulting. His proficiency in technical architecture and Building Information Modeling (BIM) has revolutionized the drafting process, enabling precise project cost estimates and streamlined workflows. Justin's strategic use of technology extends to the early stages of design, where he leverages BIM to make informed decisions that shape the final built environment. As the Director of Pre-construction and Design, Justin leads the internal bidding and estimating processes, ensuring accuracy, efficiency, and value for clients.

"Our goal is to simplify the construction process for our clients while maintaining the highest standards of quality and craftsmanship," said Justin. "With premier Architectural & Design Services, we can ensure that every aspect of the project aligns with our client's goals and exceeds their expectations."

New Path Construction & Consulting's Architectural & Design Services include:

- Comprehensive project management
- Architectural and engineering design
- Preconstruction planning and budgeting
- General contracting and construction management
- Quality assurance and project oversight
